

THE LIGHTHOUSE

Restaurant & Rooftop Bar

On 14 December 1958, the lighthouse on The Fullerton Building, known as the Fullerton Light, was turned on to guide ships ashore from more than 18 nautical miles (33 km) out of Singapore. It replaced the then 103 year-old Fort Canning light on Fort Canning Hill which was gradually being blocked by high rise buildings in the city.

The Fullerton Light was installed on the rooftop of The Fullerton Building, towering at almost 50m above sea level. It sat on top of a small concrete structure which is today The Lighthouse, The Fullerton Hotel's signature Italian restaurant. It was known to be the most powerful light of the five in operation then.
